How Who Paint Rocks.

This is the season when those artists known to their fellow craftsmen as "rock painters" make tracks for the mountains. Upward of 500 of them bade this town goodbye during the past 10 days. They will not return until October is past. They are the persons who scale the loftiest peaks with the courage and agility of a chamois hunter to mark in mammoth letters on the faces of rocks the apocryphal merits of "Bingo's bergamot pills," "Dumfudgin's never-get-fat-any-more elixir" and many other like nostrums.

They are employed by advertising concerns in the metropolis and are hired for from three to five months, according to the climatic conditions of the latitudes they are sent to. Those sent south sometimes remain on the road longer than five months. They travel in couples. The route of each pair is laid out before the start, and each couple carries a copy with them. They are paid from $15 to $25 a week. In addition to their pay each man is allowed $10 a week for board.

Their employers pay their traveling expenses—that is, railroad fares and wagon hire. Each couple starts out with $25 in cash with which to pay wagon hire and pay board. To encourage them to drive close bargains for rigs each firm of employers offers a prize of from $100 to $150 to the brace of "daubers" whose bills for wagon hire foot up the least at the end of the season. Statements of expenditures, with vouchers, must be sent to their bosses once a week. Sometimes these nomadic sign painters do not ride on a railroad for weeks. Every year they have to seek routes in wilder regions.—New York Advertiser.

A Word About the Russet Shoes.

A fashion writer in a morning contemporary asks:
 "What is the attraction which brown leather boots seem to possess for both men and women, young and old? This year they have made their appearance, not only considerably earlier than usual, but also in larger numbers than ever before. Some declare that they are more comfortable, but experience hardly bears out that impression. A brown boot can never be so pliable and so easy as one of black leather, moreover, the brown boot is distinctly less becoming than the black."

The writer of this must have had a singular experience with brown leather. The russet shoes are worn by most people because they are softer and more pliable, and above all because the pores of the leather are not tightly closed as they are in patent leather, and in all black leather that is subjected to polish blacking. The difference in comfort in hot weather between a ventilating russet shoe and impervious patent leather is quickly obvious when a change is made from one to the other. The summer dress of Americans has tended to comfort in all respects during the last few years, and no two innovations have added more to a mitigation of hot weather discomfort than the brown shoe and the unstarched fine cotton shirts for gentlemen.—New York World.

Part of a Talk With Edwin Booth.
 "Did anybody ever tell you you looked like Edgar A. Poe?" I asked.
 "No," replied Booth, "but the other day in passing up Broadway I was attracted by a portrait in a window which I took for mine, but which was Mr. Poe's. I am a great admirer of him. By the way, do you know that he was a grandson of Benedict Arnold?"
 "No."

"Well, he was, or at least he claimed to be. In a conversation between Poe and Tom Placide, an old actor, Poe asserted that his mother, whose maiden name was Arnold, was the illegitimate daughter of Benedict."

"But Poe was greatly given to romancing about himself," I explained.
 "But would a man romance in that way about himself?"
 "Most men would not, but Mr. Poe would."—Utica Observer.

The Queen's Steeds.
 Some people were rather startled the other day at the apparition of a team of the queen's cream colored horses trotting soberly down Queen's Gate, London. They were of course being exercised in view of the ceremony at the Imperial institute. Being so seldom occupied in any other work than the cannibalistic one of "tasting their heels off," they are inclined to wax fat and sick. The forelegs of these wonderful steeds are tethered in the stables as they are inclined to be restive, and in order to break them in for the ordeal of a ceremony such as that at the opening of the Imperial institute a military band plays in the stables several times previously to accustom them to the blare of brass and the rattle of drums.—London Letter.

Rained by Face Improvers.
 A young widow, who had been endeavoring to add artificiality to her charms of person, is the complainant in an interesting case which will be before the law courts before long. She visited a well known west end beautifier who deals in lotions and powder warranted to improve the complexion, but after a very brief trial was compelled to call in a physician. The latter after hearing the facts and analyzing the stuffs she had been using declared that she was being slowly poisoned by a lotion. The lady is about to sue for damages.—Sheffield Telegraph.

A Quarrel Between Kings.
 According to a foreign correspondent Emperor William almost quarreled with King Humbert because the latter would not call out the Italian troops at midnight with a view to ascertaining their discipline. The emperor insisted, the king protested, and it was not until Queen Marguerite explained that such a proceeding would arouse the city and alarm the pope—the bersaglieri being quartered under the walls of the Vatican—that the Kaiser renounced his purpose and went to bed in very ill humor.

WAKE UP.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the turgid tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.

FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1893.

CALIFORNIA AWAKENING.

The meeting held at the Palace hotel, San Francisco, in the interest of silver was very largely attended. Speeches were made by Congressman Newlands of Nevada, Hon. T. G. Phelps, Attorney General Hart and others. Rousing yet reasonable speeches were made in favor of free coinage and committees were appointed to make arrangements for holding a mass meeting next Saturday night.

There was, also, a meeting of citizens held at Oakland to express the sentiments of the community on the silver question. The resolutions adopted show that the various phases of the subject are understood in that city. They declare that if the free coinage of silver had not been prevented by the demonetization act of 1873, which became a law without the knowledge or consent of the people, the country would have been spared the humiliating spectacle of poverty in the midst of plenty, and believing that if the laws governing coinage prior to 1873 are enacted fair justice will be rendered to debtor and creditor and the success of industrial enterprises will be ensured. They earnestly call upon the people to unite in an appeal to congress to restore silver to the position it held under the coinage act of 1873, which was repealed by the act of 1873. A committee was appointed to confer with the friends of silver in San Francisco, and to arrange, if practicable, for a state convention at an early day to formulate an address on the silver question, which shall set forth the righteous demands of the people for the guidance of the California delegation in congress.

There is no city in the Union that owes more to silver than San Francisco. Its principal banks were organized by men who had made millions in Nevada silver mines. Its finest hotels and buildings were erected with silver, and Sutter Heights, which are open to the public, owe their beauties and embellishments to the Comstock. Untold millions, in fact by far the greater part of the immense product of Nevada mines, was invested in San Francisco. This state deals almost exclusively in that city. Every Nevada who can afford to do so spends more or less of his time and money there, and its business relations are closely allied with those of Nevada. It feels the depression fully as much as this state and it is to its interest to do what it can to relieve the stringency, which, to a great extent, is attributable to the demonetization of one-half the money of ultimate redemption of the world.

It is gratifying to the silver state to have the golden state recognize the importance of remonetizing silver. Its newspapers and its public men, with very few exceptions, have been apathetic and disposed to let the silver producing states and the agricultural states of the west battle with the gold trust, without even the moral support of California. Now, however, that they are interesting themselves in the great question, it is hoped that they will do good service in the cause of the people.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

The Denver people are jubilant over the bright outlook of the proposed new railroad from that city, by way of Salt Lake, to San Francisco. They do not doubt the success of the enterprise and they are confident that grading will soon be commenced. The News has the following on the subject:

"The Denver, Salt Lake and San Francisco railroad, now incorporated and capitalized, is the most important railway project, in its possible results, connected with the history of Denver. It is the one thing needed to place this city on the most direct and natural transcontinental highway, and will open a great expanse of undeveloped, because hitherto inaccessible, territory that is known to be rich in resources. The character of the men who have taken hold of that enterprise justifies the assurance that details of the route will soon be settled and that grading and trucklaying from both terminals and central point will be commenced in the near future."

FRIENDS of Secretary Gresham are beginning to boom him for president. "It is generally understood that Gresham accepted the portfolio of secretary of state with the distinct understanding that he is to be the next presidential candidate of the Democratic party." That is what General Joseph T. Torrence of Chicago, who is a Republican, but voted for Cleveland, says, and he adds that he has no doubt of his nomination and election.

In accordance with a custom established by the Mormons, all persons over 70 years of age irrespective of age, creed, sex or condition, are treated to an excursion annually. Tuesday they were invited to Ogden, and were given a free ride to and from that city on the Union Pacific and free entertainment while at Ogden. There was a general response to the invitation and the old people had their every want provided for by the old folks' committee.

CONGRESSMAN NEILL of Arkansas says more money is the only thing needed. He is therefore for the free and unlimited coinage of silver and, like Bland of Missouri, will not stop at party lines to obtain it.

The Denver banks sent a check for $1,000 to the state convention toward defraying delegates' expenses to the national bimetallic convention which meets in Chicago August 1st.

FEMALE CONVICTS.

They Are Punished With the Lash in Georgia.

A BIG STRIKE THREATENED.

The Tobacco Crop Ruined—Missing Money.

LOSS OF THE VICTORIA.

Rear-Admiral Markham Knew It Was Impracticable.

VALETTA, July 19.—Rear-Admiral Markham of the Camperdown was the first witness to-day before the court-martial investigation of the Victoria-Camperdown disaster. His official dispatches to the admiralty court, reporting the facts and details of the disaster, were read, and he stated that he had nothing to add to them. When the signal of Vice-Admiral Tyrone was hoisted ordering six cable lengths distance Rear-Admiral Markham said to his flag lieutenant: "That is impossible, as it is an impracticable maneuver." Witness said further that after consultation with his flag lieutenant this conclusion was reached, that the Victoria would ease her helm and circle around on the outside of the division which was being led by the Camperdown. Had this assumption been founded on fact the maneuver would have been attended by no danger. The rear-admiral stated that he was cognizant of Vice-Admiral Tyrone's memorandum in regard to discretionary obedience of orders when strict obedience of orders would entail disaster. When the signal flying on the Victoria was hauled down the Camperdown was powerless to avoid a collision.

FEMALE CONVICTS.

Punished With the Lash for All Offenses.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 19.—There has been an outbreak from Maddox's Camp and five of the female convicts have escaped. The remaining sixty are waiting for a chance to get away and the whole plantation is demoralized. The armed guards have been reinforced and close watch is being kept on those who are suspected of complicity in the plans of escape.

Maddox's Camp is a plantation situated on the Savannah river in Elbert county. All the female convicts are sent there, the male prisoners being hired out to another planter, and they are compelled to do the ordinary hard labor of the plantations. Many of them are white women, and young and old, white and black, labor in the fields together. For all offenses they are punished with the lash at the will of their lessee, and many stories of horrible cruelty are told.

Big Strike Threatened.

LONDON, July 19.—Delegates representing 248,000 coal miners in various parts of the country met in Birmingham to-day to consider the proposal of the mine owners to reduce the wages 25 per cent. After a lengthy and heated debate a resolution was adopted declaring the conference was opposed to the reduction. No decision was reached to-day on the question of the strike if the mine owners persist in their intention to make a reduction. The strike, should one occur, will be the largest movement of the kind that has ever taken place in the united kingdom.

No Right to Own Mines.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 19.—July 19.—Attorney-General Little is considering the question of the right of railroad companies to mine coal or own stock in coal mining companies under their charters. If the law sustains his opinion he will proceed against them. The strikers claim if the influence of the railroads was destroyed they would win the strike easily.

Money Missing.

KEOKUK, Iowa, July 19.—A package alleged to contain a thousand dollars for Banker Robertson of Promise City, Iowa, left Chicago Saturday by the United States express and was transferred at Keokuk to the Pacific express. On arrival at its destination the package contained nothing but brown paper and cotton. The authorities are investigating.

A Hoax.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., July 19.—It is now known positively that the story written from here Monday night that the United States man-of-war Mohican had been fired into the sealing steamer Alexander is a pure fabrication, manufactured out of whole cloth by the correspondent representing the Associated Press at Seattle.

Tobacco Crop Ruined.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19.—A cyclonic storm, accompanied with hail, which passed over this section last evening, made terrible havoc with the tobacco crop in the largest tobacco-growing district in the fertile Connecticut valley. The damage will exceed $100,000.

Joined the Catholic Church.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Rev. Edward Benjamin Russell, the well-known rector of the American Chapel in Florence, has abandoned the Methodist Episcopal church and been received in the Roman Catholic church by Archbishop Corrigan.

The Chicago River.

CHICAGO, July 19.—That big open sewer, the Chicago river, has reached a condition during the last few days that threatens to depopulate all of the adjacent districts on both sides of the sluggish stream. The foul current of the river, stagnant under the torrid sun, has reached a condition never before touched within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

To Foreclose a Big Mortgage.
NEW YORK, July 19.—The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as trustee, has brought suit against the D. G. Yuengling, Jr. Brewing Company to foreclose a mortgage of $1,500,000 given on the brewery property to secure bonds. A lis pendens to-day was filed against the property.

Telegraph Notes.
C. T. Mulkey, late special agent of the treasury department indicted for smuggling, has surrendered to the authorities at Portland, Or.

The Russian ambassador at Paris has given assurance that the czar will support France in support of all points involved in the Siamese difficulty.

Striking miners, aided by their wives attacked those who had taken their places at Weir city, Kansas. Clubs and pistols were used and several persons injured but none killed.

The Kansas silver convention is in session at Topeka, with several hundred delegates from all parts of the state in attendance. Kansas is as strong for silver as Colorado.

The run to draw money from the Denver banks has changed to a rush to make deposits. The comptroller of the currency telegraphed the bank examiner to announce that he would lend the banks every aid possible.

The closing of silver mines and smelters in Colorado has thrown about 30,000 men out of employment, and it is estimated that Utah, Montana, Colorado and New Mexico merchants have countermanded orders for goods in New York to the amount of $12,000,000.

Frank Miller of D. O. Mills' bank, Sacramento, called as an expert on handwriting in Jefferis' trial, says that the Jefferis signature on the register of the Arcade hotel and on the marriage license affidavit book in San Francisco were written by the same person.

The world's fair commissioners from the state of Washington charge Comptroller Eckels of grossly insulting the state of Washington in a speech at the Union League club by saying that more banks had failed in that state than in any other. They deny the assertion and refer to the record of bank failures in the last ninety days to prove that they are right.

A Merry Crowd.

A joyous crowd of fifteen or twenty young folks chartered a hay rack and a "dead-ex" wagon last evening and indulged, for several hours, in an old fashioned "hay ride." They were amply provided with tin horns and improvised tambourines, the noise of which, mingled with the joyous laugh and screaming of the merry crowd, reminded one of the near approach of a Chinese holiday.

The Ladies.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies may use the California liquid laxative Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, makes it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of the package.

SPRAYING MACHINERY.

(Newspaper bulletin No. 7.)

The following is written in response to numerous inquiries regarding the proper spraying machinery suited to general work in the application of insecticides and fungicides.

The recently increasing demand throughout the country for spraying apparatus has led to the production of many forms of force pumps and nozzles. Most of these are manufactured in the east, but recently the demand in California for such apparatus has made imperative the establishment on this coast of manufacturing and agencies for spraying machinery of the most approved patterns.

The suitability of the force pump employed is dependent upon the nature of the work to be accomplished. The large orchards of California demand the use of pumps of large capacity. These permit the use of two or more spray discharges and consequently require an extreme amount of force in their management. There is however little if any call as yet in Nevada for machinery permitting such wholesale work.

Another extreme is represented in the small pump manipulated by one hand while the other directs the nozzle. Such are very satisfactory when employed upon small plants and shrubs in limited numbers, but for orchard use these pumps are utterly useless. Not only is the required labor unduly increased, but worst of all the spray, if it reaches the upper branches at all, has little or no force as it does so.

For general farm use the most available force pump is doubtless one that will keep two discharge pipes of 1/2 inch hose constantly filled with considerable pressure. To run such a pump the labor of one man will be required. But one of the discharges need be used in spraying proper, the other with partially obstructed outlet may be directed into the supply receptacle as an agitator. This is necessary with such substances as remain in mechanical mixture only, the active portion of which will settle if undisturbed. When using other liquids requiring no agitation this discharge may be cut off, thus giving increased force to the nozzle discharge.

The most important virtue of the pump lies in the force that can be imparted to its discharge. Herein lies a great part of the secret of successful spraying. To aid this, 1/2-inch hose is greatly to be preferred over 3/4-inch hose which is also much heavier and more cumbersome. For orchard work twenty-five or thirty feet of hose is none too much. To no part of the spraying outfit is greater importance due than to the nozzle and its use. Upon these, added by the proper force from the pump, is dependent the thoroughness with which the work of spraying can be accomplished.

In general the best nozzle is that which resolves the stream into a fine mist which still retains a considerable part of the force imparted by the pump.

It will be seen that such a spray will extend at most but a few feet beyond the nozzle. Experience has demonstrated that to obtain best results, the nozzle must be held close to the point of attack. To meet this, the modern spraying outfit includes an "extension" which consists of a light gas-pipe six or eight feet long encased in bamboo. This connecting the hose and nozzle permits the latter to be brought close to the uppermost branches where the work may be as thoroughly done as below. For temporary use, the "extension" may be replaced by an ordinary bamboo pole to one extremity of which the hose bearing the nozzle may be attached, the operator then holding the hose with the other extremity of the bamboo.

These leading features of the spraying outfit are generally admitted to be essential and the writer cannot do other than advise their observance by those intending the purchase of spraying apparatus.

A more complete description of the various nozzles in use is reserved for a forthcoming article.

A GLOVE CONTEST.

Fraker Worsted in the Sixth Round.

A glove contest took place at the race track yesterday between Tom Fraker and Ingelhart. The stakes were said to be $250 a side. A spectator gives the following report of the affair to a Journal reporter:

The referee was Billy Myers of Virginia City:

First round—Honors easy.

Second—Nobody hurt.

Third—Both up and smiling.

Fourth—Hot and heavy; Fraker shows signs of weakening.

Fifth—Both played for wind.

Sixth—Fraker groggy and tired and threw up the sponge.

There were a hundred or more spectators and the ring was formed between the track and grand stand.

A Mother's Affection.

A family arrived at Aurora, Ill., last week from Sweden, having with them a dead babe, which they buried there. The babe died on the ocean five miles from shore, and the mother fought frantically when the officers attempted to bury it at sea. Finally the captain thought being so near shore he would let the mother keep her dead babe until she landed. The mother carried the lifeless body in her arms and the authorities on shore thought it was asleep. She carried it aboard the cars and clung to it until she reached her destination in Illinois where the child was buried.

A RELIC OF EARLY DAYS.

Resolutions Adopted by Miners at Pyramid Lake.

The following clipping taken from the Enterprise is self-explanatory and tells a tale in itself. It was handed the Dispatch by R. H. Cowles by whom it has been kept as a kind of an heirloom. The breastedworks of Fort Defiance are still in the canyon but show the ravages of the thirty years that have passed since the resolutions were printed. Like the journals in which the lines were printed, many of the miners ceased to exist. One thing strikes the mind, however, and that is the fact that the prospects which brought the pioneers of Nevada to Fort Defiance in the face of warning Indians, must have been rich and alluring.

PYRAMID LAKE DISTRICT, U. T., August 20, 1860.

At a meeting of the miners of the above district, held at Fort Defiance, August 20, 1860, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Indians have returned to Pyramid lake and along the Truckee river, in force, and have on several occasions driven the miners and prospectors from their work and seem determined on hostilities, rendering it unsafe for the whites to remain in the district, therefore be it

Resolved, 1st, That the locations made and duly recorded in the record book of this district, though the claims are unworked, shall remain in full force and effect, the same as if the required work had been done.

Resolved, 2d, That each and every claim shall hold good unto the locator or claimant, until the first day of June, 1861, without further work being done upon the same.

Resolved, 3d, That the secretary be and is hereby instructed, to give the required notice for making additions to the laws of the district.

Resolved, 3d, That these resolutions be published in the Territorial Enterprise and the Sierra Citizen.

FIRE BUGS.

Theories Regarding the Late Fires—An Assistant Watchman Necessary.

It is painfully apparent that a determined effort is being made to burn the town. Recent efforts have demonstrated the fact that the big fire on Sierra street a few weeks ago was the work of an incendiary. As that fire originated at or near a China wash-house the conclusion at once arrived at was that it was the result of carelessness on the part of the Chinese, but when a few weeks later an unmistakable incendiary effort was made to fire another washhouse on the west side of Virginia street, and a few days later another attempt is made to fire a washhouse on the opposite side of the same street, the conclusion is irresistible that the fires from first to last was the work of the same party or gang.

Yesterday, while examining the result of the fire on the east side of Virginia street, it was discovered that an attempt had been made, some time Wednesday night, to set fire to the washhouse on the west side of the street. A match had been put to some paper attached to the north wall, which appears to have burned out of its own accord, charring the walls quite perceptibly and with several pieces of partially burned paper still adhering to the wall. These two fires having been started on opposite sides of the street about the same time would indicate the work of more than one person.

That all these incendiary attempts should be confined to China houses indicates one of two things, either that it is the work of some villainous crank, who has adopted this means to suppress Chinese laundries, or that of some miserable scoundrel who are endeavoring to destroy the town and are cunning enough to confine their work to China houses hoping thereby to ward off suspicion, as in the case of the Sierra street fire. The latter theory is probably the correct one. A part of the gang keep an eye upon one lonely watchman while others do the work.

There is no more faithful or vigilant officer living than Dick Nash, but it is absolutely impossible for any one man to be in more than one place at the same moment. He is constantly on the move from dark to daylight and visits every part of the business portion of town several times during the night, but it must not be forgotten that the "hobos" know his whereabouts at all times and conveniently keep out of sight. Officer Nash needs an assistant badly and the people can better afford to stand the expense of one more watchman than take the chances every night of having the town burned.

BREVITIES.

The weather was cloudy yesterday for the first time in two months. The day was quite sultry and the heat seemed more oppressive than on cloudless days.

Tourist travel to the lakes is exceedingly lively just now, says the Republican. Crowds are going daily to Tahoe, Donner, Webber and other places of resort around Truckee.

Judge Linn sent three hilarious individuals to the county jail yesterday, giving them ten days each for disturbing the peace and quiet of the town, and one malicious individual twenty days for playfully throwing a rock through a plate glass window at the Columbus house.

While Colonel Nevis and wife were in a skiff on the river near Oregon City the other day a big sturgeon, six feet long, leaped out of the river, striking Colonel Nevis in the face and then falling back into the water. Beyond leaving slime on the Colonel's face and sleeve he was not injured.

The railroad men have inaugurated a movement to organize a federation which will include conductors, brakemen, engineers, firemen, telegraphers and switchmen. One of the principal objects of the proposed organization, it is said, will be to take the part of men who the federation believes were discharged without just cause.

It is no pleasant thing for the citizens to have a town destroyed by fire at any time, but it is particularly unfortunate for the people of Susanville to be burned out at this particular time, when money is so scarce. Some persons are of the opinion that Susanville will not be built up again for years, while others equally as well informed say better buildings will be erected than those which were burned.

What Shall I Take?

Why Simmons Liver Regulator, of course. It can't be beat in any attack of Indigestion, Billiousness, Sick Headache or Constipation. It gives quick relief, and if continued for a while will completely cure these ailments. The Regulator comes in liquid and powder form. The powder is wonderfully convenient for the vest pocket. A pinch of the powder and a swallow of water leaves no taste and works effectually.

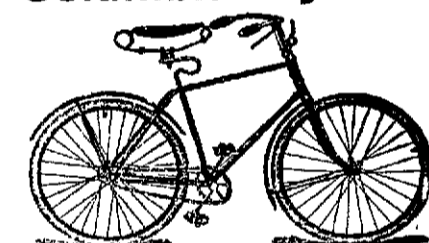

The Republican says suit has been commenced against the Truckee Lumber Company to compel them to forfeit their charter as a corporation. The cause of the complaint is for alleged dumping of sawdust into the Truckee river, concerning which we will give full particulars later on.

A SUPERNATURAL STORY.

The Contents of a Paper Found on the Person of an Insane Suicide.
Here is a story of the supernatural. It happened more than 100 years ago, so that you may hope that it is not true.
Yet in those days the invention of news was not yet known, and the paper which contains this story was a sober and honest journal. One of the patients in a madhouse—a parish madhouse, I think that of Lancaster—escaped. That was no new thing. They all wanted to escape. As the woman, although very mad indeed, was quite harmless, they went about their search in a leisurely fashion. At last they found her drowned in a shallow ditch and carried her back to the madhouse.

On preparing the unhappy woman for the grave they found in her corset—then called bust-stays—something that startled
Them out of their open and discovered a small parcel rolled up tight in some waterproof stuff—whatever was then invented. The parcel was a document written on parchment. It was written very small and misspelled, but this was how it ran:

"The man came along after dark. He stopped at our door and said he was a stranger, and would my aunt take him in for the night? He seemed a sailor and said he was respectable and showed money. 'Elizabeth,' said aunt, 'he can have your room, and you shall sleep with me.' There were two bedrooms in the cottage, up a ladder, both garrets. During the evening he sent me out for drink, and he had a lot and was drunk, but he got up the ladder safe and so to bed. In the night I heard aunt get out of bed. There was a moon shining in the skylight window.

"She took something and went into the man's room. Then I was frightened and sat up in bed, and I heard a sound as of a blow and nothing more. Presently aunt came back, and in the moonlight
she saw me sitting up in bed. 'Get up,'
she said, 'go down stairs and get, if you can, a light.' So I did and brought the rushlight up the ladder. Aunt had the Bible in her hand. 'Swear,' she said,
'that you will never tell any one what has been done.' So I swore, trembling, and wished I might go suddenly mad if I told. 'Then,' says she, 'I've killed the lodge. His pockets were full of guineas, and I'm a made woman. But you must help me.'

"So she made me help to drag the body down into the room below and out in the garden, where we dug a hole under the cabbages and laid it as deep as we could.
Then we covered all up and went back to the house and waited till daybreak.
As soon as it was light we washed up the place, and nobody ever found out. One night, when I was a woman grown, the dead man came to my bedside and said,
'Tell the story,' and I said, 'I cannot, because I swore.' He said: 'If you tell, you have sworn to go mad. If you do not tell, I will haunt you till you do go mad.'
'So, as I am bound to go mad either way, I have written the story down and sewn it up. When I am dead, somebody will find it and will dig up the poor man and bury him in a churchyard. The house is situated' * * *

Thus the narrative. And they dug up the garden in the place indicated and found the dead body in what had been sailor's clothes.—Walter Besant in London Queen.
Plays For Young Girls.
Many wise mothers think that the theater should be reserved for adult life.
They regard it as a stimulant and to be unnecessary for the growing mind. It may be compared to those drugs which relieve headache by affecting the heart.
Still the mother who would make of her girl "a woman holy and wise" will not exclude the theater. But outside of some special representations of Shakespeare she will select only simple plays,
such as "Rip Van Winkle," "Sweet Lavender," wholesome comedy where the deep passions of life are not exhibited, where the sinful follies of youth are not presented for sympathy and for commiseration.

There is one other class of plays which she may some times allow for the same reason that she cheerfully provides romance in books, and that is the real, old fashioned melodrama in which the hero is triumphant, the villain is brought to justice and all comes out right in the end. Such a treat is like the "frolics" at surprise parties and straw rides, which were enjoyable because of their rarity.—
New York Times.

Mourning Paper.
Mourning paper is a satire in itself. It wears the deepest possible black margin for the first six months, say. Then it grows a little narrower. Is that a sign that you are not mourning so much as you were during the first half year?
Next year it is narrower still. The grief is greatly mitigated. The third year it is a mere streak. Your sorrow does not amount to much now! The next year the black border has entirely disappeared. Does that mean that you have forgotten your bereavement? That would be the logical interpretation, and yet in the case of how many whose stationery has gone through this diminishing perspective to the vanishing point the sorrow has been even more bitter after years perhaps than it was at first.—Boston Transcript.

Starboard and Larboard.
The Italians derived "starboard" from quarta borda, "this side," and "larboard" from quella borda, which means "that side." Abbreviated these two phrases appear as sta bords and la bords. Their close resemblance caused so many mistakes that the admiralty ordered the "larboard" to be discontinued and "port" substituted. "Port" for "larboard" is said to be first used in Arthur Pitt's
"Voyages" in 1680.—Philadelphia Press.

LIVERIES IN ENGLAND AND EUROPE.
Liveries of uncommon and unrhaid's shade are common in England, but than on the continent. The Blounts, for instance, dress their servants in Maroon pepper and salt, and there is to be seen in the parks a well known livery of violet, with amaranthine facings—a rather startling combination. However, as a rule, good form and good taste are on the side of simplicity, and the habitual liveries in the best English houses is a black or dark coat, with only the colored or striped waistcoat and the dress white tie. The long white tie fastened with a pin is only allowable to the coachman
and the footman who rides on the box.
The butler in England permits himself or is permitted to indulge in a license which is unheard of abroad. He appears all dinner time in a dress coat,
the rest of the costume being emphatically a morning one. Abroad this is never done. Either this functionary does not show, or he is invariably in a full dress suit. On great occasions and in some aristocratic houses this is exchanged for the black coat "la Francaise," the black silk breeches and stockings, and sometimes even a slender court sword, sheathed in black. The con-cierge or hall porter on gala days wears a rich, heavy galleoned uniform, shoes and silk hose, his big cocked hat worn straight across the forehead on bataille, and he carries a tall, massive, silver headed cane.
For coachman and footmen the winter magnificence has been almost entirely superseded by the huge fur tipstuds and long fur cuffs reaching nearly to the elbow. Some of these have been known to cost large sums of money.—
